

RGS Homework Policy - Students

The following policy refers specifically to students in Years 7 - 11, but the general principles outlined in Sections 2 and 3 also apply to Sixth Form students.

Homework is set to maximise student learning and progress and is under the jurisdiction of subject teachers.

1) Homework:

- Your teacher will go through your homework with you during the lesson and you will have an opportunity to ask questions about it.
- Your teacher will confirm your homework using Assignments on Teams. You can see which Assignments have been set by clicking on the 'My Assignments' button.
- You are expected to produce well presented written work with a date and title for each piece.
- You are encouraged to discuss your homework with your parents on a regular basis.

2) Sanctions for late / incomplete / poor homework:

The following sanctions can be expected:

- If your homework is late / incomplete / poor on one occasion, you will receive a verbal warning and a Behaviour Point.
- If your homework is late / incomplete / poor on a second occasion, you will receive a break/lunch time detention.
- If your homework is late / incomplete / poor on a third occasion, you will receive an after-school detention.
- If your homework continues to be late / incomplete / poor, you will continue to receive Level 3 or above sanctions and the Subject Leader may take the issue to your Head of Year.
- Counting of the above is cumulative over the year; it does not reset at the beginning of each term.
- Teacher discretion may be used to go straight to a break/lunch or after school detention depending on the nature of the infringement.
